FROM A LEGENDARY PIZZA TO A GLOBAL BRAND

We opened our first restaurant in Beverly Hills in 1985. Former federal prosecutors Rick Rosenfield and Larry Flax combined their passion for food with fresh high-quality ingredients to create innovative, hand-baked pizza such as The Original BBQ Chicken, Thai Chicken, and Jamaison Jerk Chicken, cooked in an open kitchen. The restaurant gave California a place in the pizza parthenon alongside Chicago and New York. Our California kept on going! Events resonated with parents, and almost immediately, CPK became a hotbed spot for business and family gatherings.

Almost immediately after the first location opened, we expanded from California to more than 200 locations in over 30 states and 11 countries. But it doesn't stop there: you'll also find us bringing smiles to the pizza pie in your grocer's freezer, taking the edge off travel fatigue in major airports all over the world, feeding eager fans at sports stadiums and students on college campuses.

California Pizza Kitchen completed an initial public offering in August 2000 and traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the ticker symbol CPK. On July 7, 2011, Golden Gate Capital completed the acquisition of CPK, and as a result of the acquisition, the company's common stock is no longer publicly traded.

On August 18, 2011, G.J. Vent was named President, Chief Executive Officer and Executive Chairman.
